TEACHER'S TALK

We all know that diamonds are one of the most beautiful and precious stones in the world. But what makes them special is not just their shine. It is the way they formed. Ordinary carbon, when subjected to intense heat and immense pressure deep inside the earth, transforms into a diamond.

In the same way, life often puts us under pressure through studies, responsibilities, failures, and challenges. Sometimes, these challenges may feel overwhelming. But, remember, just like a carbon turns into a diamond, challenges turn us into stronger, wiser, and capable individuals.

If there is no pressure, there is no diamond. If there are no challenges, there is no growth. So, instead of fearing difficulties, we would welcome them as opportunities that shape us.

Dear Children, whenever you feel stressed with exams, assignments, or personal struggles, remind yourself that these are not obstacles but stepping stones. Every bit of hard work you do, every failure you overcome, and every challenge you face is polishing you to shine brighter.

So let us learn to face difficulties with courage and positivity because in the end, pressure doesn't break us, it makes us shine like a diamond.

Dear children always know

You are capable

You are worthy and

You have something special the world needs.

So stand tall and work hard.

SINDHU SANTHOSH

Once, there was a young boy who lived in a village by the river. Every morning, his father asked him to fetch two buckets of water before he went to play with his friends.

One day, the boy thought, "Why do I waste my time fetching water? The river will always be there. I'll just play first and get water later."

He ran off to play, forgetting his task. When he returned in the evening, tired and thirsty, the river had turned muddy after a heavy rain. He couldn't fetch clean water anymore that day. His family had to go without water for the night.

The next morning, his father said gently,

"Son, time is like that river. It flows and never comes back. If you miss your chance to do what's needed at the right time, you can't always fix it later."

From that day on, the boy learned to balance — he fetched his water first, then played freely without worry.

Moral:

Time once gone never returns. Enjoy life, but remember your responsibilities — that's the real secret to a happy and successful life. Time flows like a river — once it passes, you can't get it back.

Enjoy your life, but remember: real freedom comes from balance. When you do what's needed at the right time, fun feels even better.
